Fruit of the Light

For the fruit of the light consists of all goodness, righteousness and truth (Ephesians 5:9).

In this section of scripture Paul outlines to the Ephesian Christians how their current lives in the light of Christ are to differ from their former lives in darkness. They were once living in darkness. Now they live in the light. Three attributes of light-living are given. Let's consider them.

Goodness

Christ teaches that light exposes, light is good, light makes things grow and bear fruit (light represents Jesus, truth, revelation, divine life) - whereas darkness (not an equal force in itself, but rather an absence of light), conceals, hides, brings forth no growth or fruit and sets the scene for evil. Darkness is rejection, deception, spiritual blindness and separation from God. Remember the simple but devastating words in John's gospel when Judas Iscariot went out to betray Jesus: it was night (John 13:30). Goodness does not fear the light, on the contrary it seeks it out. Goodness is not hidden under bushels, it has nothing to fear, there are no bad sides to it. But evil, "badness", needs the cloak of the night to keep it hidden.

Righteousness

Simply put, righteousness is a choice to do what is right. To do the right thing. To know what God considers as right and to obey him. Righteousness is the raiment in which God clothes his own. It is not a faded or torn garment, it is light-colored, lovingly washed in the waters of the Spirit, a protection against the winds and wiles of the devil. Evil stands no chance against the "breastplate of righteousness" (Ephesians 6:14), for Jesus' love, His honesty, His true spirit in the end wins every time.

Truth

In the Upper Room, Jesus prayed that God would sanctify (set apart for sacred use) the apostles by means of the "truth". He then clarifies: "Your word is truth" (John 17:17). Perfect truth comes from God. Walking in the light means walking in truth: walking in what is true, of God. Those committed to righteousness will know what is right by learning the truths of God: those commandments and teachings of Jesus found in His Holy Word.

May we walk in the light as He is in the light, bearing the light's fruit of goodness, righteousness, and truth.

The Lord is My Shepherd by Emma Braswell
