Sunday Night Bible Study

Our Sunday night Bible study is rapidly becoming one of my favorite times of the week. It's hard to put into words exactly why, but I will try.

Open discussion.
Formatted as a Bible discussion, everybody has the chance to come and make their ideas known and to join in further exchange about the Sunday sermon. Everyone's input is valuable and adds to the understanding and application of the Bible text being discussed. It is a facilitated, open Bible dialogue -- one where the preacher learns as much as he teaches.

A close knit family atmosphere.
A relaxed atmosphere gives the Sunday night Bible study the feel of a small group study in a larger setting. It is a space that brings us closer together : the participants naturally share their own heartfelt personal stories as together we explore a Bible moral, topic or text. If you are looking for a place to feel more a part of the congregation and to forge deeper relationships with God's people at Northside, give our new Sunday night format a try.

Interesting and heartfelt reflections on prayer.
Recently, a discussion on prayers led to many interesting and heartfelt reflections. One notable exchange was on prayers-of-the-moment compared with liturgical prayers (from a book, organized by topic and occasion). Liturgical prayers can help when we are either feeling a bit tongue-tied or perhaps too overwhelmed to find our own words (at a funeral or other sad occasion, for example). These well-thought-out prayers can be of real comfort when our hearts are breaking. Many of our best-loved church songs are nothing other than liturgical prayers set to music - but it is up to each one of us to fill them with fresh meaning every time we sing them! We do something similar when we listen to a public prayer leader, join our thoughts together with his and "sign" our own name and make them our own. Ultimately, all prayer must always come from our hearts.

After-class sharing.
After the prayer class, many continued in their prayer discussions with one another. Walking outside, we marveled at God's goodness as the brilliant rainbow encircled the sky. As one person wrote to me afterwards, "Prayer is our comfort for trials, our connection to our Maker and Father God, and is our weapon against the enemy. And of course brings us together more than anything."

Thank you

To My Church Family, thank you so much for all the prayers, calls, get well cards and birthday cards for my 82nd birthday. I appreciated them so much! The neurologist said it could take 3 months or more for my back to heal- it has been 6 weeks now so maybe it won't be long until I can be back with you. Miss everyone but is so good to be able to worship with you on line Sunday mornings- continue to pray for me. In Christian love, Charlene Cunningham

Dear Church Family, Thank you for the prayers, phone calls & text messages. Mom (Connie Miller) is home after 80 days in the hospital fighting Covid. God has been merciful & prayers have been answered. LeAnn Presley, Siblings & family

Dear Northside family, thank you for all the Happy Birthday cards & phone calls for my 100th birthday. Also, thank you Harold and Sandra Johnson, Scott & Terri Miller, Carl & Glenda Curtis, ER & Janice Taylor, Lisa & Larry Martin & Steve & Susan Powers for the beautiful singing of hymns & happy birthday. May God bless you all for making my birthday so special. In Christian Love, Eloise Williams

Sympathy

We would like to extend out sympathy to Angie Calvert and family over the loss of her grandmother, Dorcas Rackley. The service will be @ Gainsville, MO Church of Christ, Fri. 9/17. Visitation will be @9 am and service @ 10 am
