So, I'm sitting here on my front porch listening to the birds. It's about 7:30 in the evening, and there's a whole bunch of birds. I'm not real sure what kind of birds they all are, but I know they're all talking at the same time. Some of them just have a constant staccato chirp. Somewhere across the road I can hear a couple of birds that have some sort of really fast twittering going on. A while ago, there was a birth that had a raspy, hissing type call. I think he might have been agitated with a woodpecker that was pecking away on a dead oak tree across the way. There's a handful of crows that are really raising a ruckus by the persimmon tree over in the hayfield. They're probably the loudest ones. There are so many birds. I have no idea what they are saying. Some seem happy. Some don't. I don't think the raspy one was spreading good cheer. Anyway, here's the deal. YOU are ever bit as special as one of these beautiful birds. Some of us are bigger than others. Some of us have big voices. Some of us sorta chirp. Some are excited with the dawn of a new day. Some of us struggle to get through the day. Nevertheless, YOU bring something to the nest that nobody else can bring. You are unique. You are wonderfully made. So, be the best bird you can be.
