No. 13

March 27, 2019

Disappointment is no fun

When things don't go your way, you've got a couple of choices. You can pout like a three-year-old and can decide the whole world is bad and what's the use, or you can put on a sort-of smile and make the best of it.

We had so many ball teams in town last week. It was great to see their big buses of students staying in hotels and eating at our restaurants. I know it was very positive for the community. Traffic did get a little slow at times, but the greater good — right? But the main thing ... only one team went home with the championship trophy. The rest did their best, but eventually lost and felt disappointed — I'm sure.

Circumstances disappoint us all the time. It's too cold. It's too hot. It's too muddy to play at the park or the bike tires are flat. Our favorite shirt is in the dirty clothes. We don't like the book we have to read. All of these things are just part of life.

People also disappoint us, too. Someone promises something, and then for whatever reason the situation changes. That can be heartbreaking. But again, we can put the good attitude on and make the best of things, or we can let circumstances or that person control our destiny.

I personally, follow the belief that God is in control of my life. When things don't go the way I think they should, of course I'm disappointed. But I have faith that God knows what He is doing in my life and He is still working out things for my good.

So, take a deep breath. Let go of the disappointment and determine to be your best and do the best job you can do — with the circumstances and choices you have left for you. It's up to you to decide which direction you go. I pray that you make the right choices!
