Lest We Forget

2 Peter 1:12-15 "I will always remind you of these things, even though you know them and are firmly established in the truth you now have (12)."

We tend to be forgetful.

All humans are forgetful, some more so than others. Peter, realistic and down-to-earth as always, himself 'forgot' about Jesus' warning about his denial, until that fateful evening when the cock crowed and reminded him. The verses in today's study succeed Peter's list of virtues: there are about ten such lists in the New Testament, mostly in Paul's letters. Paul presents his choices as equals - whereas Peter's list of Christian Graces is cumulative. One builds on the next, almost as if the Christian was climbing a ladder, with LOVE at the summit. I think this is Peter being practical again: having failed Jesus so grievously, he came to believe that the only way forward was by remembering forgiven failures, gritting one's teeth, starting again and resolving to step upwards. Things can genuinely slip our minds on occasion but we can also choose to forget when it suits us. Peter seems to be saying "Look we all have this failing, and when it happens to you, take the bit between your teeth and march upwards, one small step at a time, until, comforted by the Holy Spirit and relying on God, you reach that union of love with Jesus, where Love reigns supreme. There, where Jesus' web of love joins each soul to every other one, no further forgetting is possible."

Lest we forget.

Some may wonder why Christians continue to study the Bible over and over and over. We do this because even after a lifetime of study, the truths of scripture never fail to show us something new, something we had never noticed or never considered. There are many times I remark to myself: "Wow, I've never noticed that before", even after having preached for 40 years. Yet, mainly Christians continue to study the Bible because humans are forgetful, and the forgotten parts are often important parts. In our text under consideration, Peter reminds Christians of the things they already know, lest we forget.

Knowledge.

The 2 Peter letter is a treatise on knowledge. "His divine power has given us everything we need for life and godliness through our knowledge of him who called us by his own glory and goodness" (2 Peter 1:3). Knowing Jesus more, knowing His words more establishes, maintains and grows faith. Peter urges his readers to add to their faith the "Christian Graces" (1:5-7) that they might keep Christians from being "ineffective and unproductive in [their] knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ" (1:8).

And so, as people prone to forgetfulness, may we commit ourselves to a quest for knowledge, that we might grow in faith, lest we forget.

Congratulations, Vance!

Vance was baptized into Christ at Yamaranguila, Honduras on Saturday, July 4th.

Vance is the son of Jason & Kara Fouraker, and brother to Owen & Lilya Fouraker.

Pray for Owen as he continues to grow in his faith.

Dear Northside Family,
Thank you for the calls, texts, food, and visits but most of all the prayers for us after Jerry's fall.

In Christ,
Jerry & Betty Honey

Thank you

Dear Church Family,

I am touched by the love shown to me while I was staying at Hillcrest. I loved the visits, the special night of singing, and the genuine wishes for improved strength and balance.

Your love, shown to me in so many ways, has left a permanent memory in my heart.

I love all of you with all my heart.
