Epaphroditus

“But I think it is necessary to send back Epaphroditus, my brother, fellow worker and fellow soldier; who is also your messenger; whom you sent to take care of my needs” (Philippians 2:25).

Behind the scenes of Paul’s ministry are many helpers. These helpers play vital roles in supporting, encouraging, and promoting the day to day work of Christian ministry. One such helper was Epaphroditus. Our text shines a light on the valuable ways that Epaphroditus gave support to Paul’s missionary journeys.

My Brother

The depth of love expressed in Paul’s relationship with Epaphroditus can be seen in the description, “brother.” More than a partnership or mere working relationship, Paul’s family language illustrates the depth, care, and emotional connection within the family of God. As we go through our Christian life and work, all those men who have shared the same experiences (often serious ones) are adopted in our minds as ‘brothers’: brothers by shared experience and brothers within the household of faith.

Fellow Soldier

Referring to Epaphroditus as a fellow soldier highlights the common enemy that all Christians face: evil. In a world that often aggressively opposes the cause of Christ, the soldier image draws us to the importance of wearing the gospel armor, holding on to faith, righteousness, and the sword of the Spirit as weapons used to ward off evil. The soldier is ready to take up the same arms, fight for the cause, and even give his life. A fellow soldier not only works with us towards the common objective, but is also ready to protect us and give his life, if necessary. Soldiers who come through alive to tell the tale will feel very strong bonds.

Messenger

Epaphroditus was a courier of financial gifts of support given by the Philippian Christians. Paul expresses his deep gratitude for the ways the Philippians had “taken care of [his] needs.” Paul depended on couriers with integrity to handle money and deliver letters with dependability and trustworthiness.

In considering these roles, we learn of the varied characteristics within the church. All important. All necessary.

Parable of the Lost Lamb

Luke 14:3-6 (CSB)

So, he told them this parable: "What man among you, who has a hundred sheep and loses one of them, does not leave the ninety-nine in the open field and go after the lost one until he finds it?

When he has found it, he joyfully puts it on his shoulders, and coming home, he calls his friends and neighbors together, saying to them, 'Rejoice with me,
because I have found my lost sheep!'

"Every sheep matters."
